Enquirer's Kentucky Correspondent Advises Democrats Not to Bet On State Election

In Sunday's Enquirer, Mr. Thomas Cronwell, the State correspondent of this great paper, advises all Democrats not to place any bets on Stanley's majority in Tuesday's election.

He says Favette county will go for Morrow, and that while Stanley will win, the race will be close.

This sounds good to Republicans. The Republicans are going to win this year. The death knell to Stanley and his mule is already sounded. The betting at Louisvill is even.

THE WHISKY MEN AND MR. STANLEY.

It was well known during the primary campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor that Mr. Stanley was the choice of the distillery and brewery interests.

Mr. Stanley made no efforts to create a coutrary impression and in every city and town where the saloon element took any part in the contest its in fluence was exerted for Mr. Stanley.

The Leader does not criticize these men for standing by their friend. Mr. Stanley in office and out of office, as private citizen and as Congressman, did everything in his power to advance the interests of the men engaged in the liquor busi-

Everywhere d at all times Mr. Stanley has of temperance legislation and perance agitation of every nature,

Hence, it is not surprising that the brewer, the tistillers, the wholesale dealers, rectifiers and saloonists would look upon Mr. Stanley as their spe cial champion and desire to see him elevated to the highest possible position of honor and authority. As before stated, these men are not to be blamed for this. Their business is outlawed in many s and is under fire everywhere. Many of them pon their occupation as legitimate and honor. nd they naturally use every means within wer to protect their rights and defend their

VOTE AND VOTE RIGHT.

Tomorrow the election for State officers will be held. The campaign has been a hard fought one, although it has been on a high plane and there has At Last One Democratic Press been very little, if any, mud slinging among the various candidates for office. This is an evidence that the oldtime method of conducting political campaigns is fast passing away. The intelligence of the voters must be considered, and they know that "abuse is no argument."

The people of Kentucky have lived during the last four years under one of the most incompetent administrations that the State has known in years.

Marguerite Clark in "Seven Sisters" At the Washington Theater Tuesday, November 2. Read the Following Synopsis of This Great Picture:

SEVEN SISTERS," the celebrated trans-Atlantic comedy success. adapted for the American stage by Edith Ellis Furniss, and presented for several seasons at the Lyceum Theater in New York by Daniel Frohman. tells the amusing story of the widow of an army officer in a small garrison town in Hungary, who has seven daughters ranging from seven to twenty-two. According to the Hungarian system of marriage, the daughters must be wed in the order of their age, and the younger ones must be kept in the background until the older ones are disposed of. Mici, portrayed by Miss Clark, the fourth in matrimonial eligibility, rebels against this system, and falls in love with an ardent young lieutenant. The duty devolves upon the lieutenant of finding suitors for the three older girls who stand in the way of his mariage to Mici. The three whom he thus leads unsuspectingly to their fates are a jealously-inclined colonel, a philandering lieutenant and a meek young university student. His conspiracies, however, involve all three pairs in trouble, for the young people show symptoms of not clinging to the sweethearts selected for them. Finally the lieutenant's calculations are completely upset by Mici's eleventh hour refusal to marry him. How these sentimental problems are at last solved is humorously unfolded in the photoplay. As Mici, Marguerite Clark is altogether delightful. Her frankness, her wistfulness, her quaint philosophy and irresistible girlishness, make the role completely captivating.

COAL FROM THE ARCTIC. A few years ago the idea of getting coal from Spitzbergen, one of the most desolate islands of the Aretle ocean, was a topic for romancers. Now it is a fact of considerable moment in many of the world's markets. A single company, financed chiefly by American capital, mined nearly 40,-000 tons of coal from Spitzbergen last year. The deposit of fuel in the far North is said to be singularly easy to work. It comes in a single seam about four feet tbick, stretching along the coast for 30 miles. The surrounding rock is so solid that timbering is not needed. The temperature is always below the freezing point in the present workings, which does away with the need of pumps. In fact, the only real difficulty is that of getting men-and motion pictures have gone far to solve that problem. Yet for every ton of coal in Spitzbergen there are ten in Alaska of at least equal quality. closer to a bungry market. The Aretic zone won't make a real dent in the fuel market till our big Northwest territory gets in action.

TO MAKE SMOOTH ROAD BEDS

Put Soll on in Layers, Not in Piles-Best Too! for Road Improvement is Splitlog Drag.

The making of a smooth roadbed requires that when the soil is put on, it be laid in layer, and not in piles. When dumped in plle some places will be more packed than others and there will likely be a difference in the density, while if laid on in layers this will be avoided. Each layer should he harrowed, or better yet, disked and packed before the next one is laid in this way a good roadbed is secured from the first, while if the soil is just dumped on the road to be leveled and packed by the traffic over the road a good roadbed will never he

The best tool for keeping the road well crowned and the surface smooth is the splitting drag. This tool should be used soon after a rain The soil is then loose and easily moved. The drag moves but small amounts of soil and smears it on the roadbed in thin layers, which is just what is wanted. It cuts off any projections and fills any low places.

are about the same size, shape and color as gypsy moth egg clusters, but the bairs are somewhat coarser, more crinkled, the whole cluster more loosely constructed, and the eggs more exposed. As a rule, also, the eggs are deposited on a network of silk on or near the old eocoon, which is often on a leaf which is also fastened to a twig by silk threads. Gypsv moth eggs are usually laid on a solid surface except in case of great abundance. There is a difference in the structure of the eggs of these two moths which will generally serve to fix their identity, but even entomologists have been mistaken regarding them.

Service of God.

Every talent is a talent thrown away if it is not used in God's service. One who has a great gift and who goes tbrough life and does not use that gift for God might hetter not have had it A young woman with remarkable musical talent recently received a note of hearty thanks for the service that she bad freely rendered at a summer conference. In a letter offering her services again, but refusing to accept money payment for it, she said: "I truly think that God has given me a gift, and I believe It is only my duty as well as pleasure to use it in his service whenever the opportunity of fers. In fact, I would be afraid not to use it, for fear be would take it away." Not only the highest use but the only use that music should have is to glorify God. So with every other gift. God asks us to do all things and to use all tblngs in Christ's name, that he may not need to take bis gifts from us.-Sunday School Times.
